

LEGISLATIVE NOTES.

Majority and Minority Reports on the Metropolitan Police Bill.

Representative Best Introduces a Bill to Amend the Liquor Law.

How Mr. Cartwright's Fee and Salary Bill Affects County Officers.

The Knightstown Home Committee Meet and Continue the Investigation—The Testimony.

Hon. William H. Calkins and Ed Henderson were up on the floor of the House yesterday.

Mr. Williams' bill fixing the legal rate of interest at 6 per cent was defeated in the House yesterday, by a vote of 67 to 27.

The Prison Committee will visit the institution at Jeffersonville today, having left for that point on the 3:30 train yesterday afternoon.

Hon. John W. Foster, United States Minister to Spain, was introduced to the members of the Senate by the presiding officer yesterday.

Mr. Robinson has introduced a bill to amend the fee and salary law, preventing Boards of County Commissioners from making any allowances not specifically provided for by law.

If the proposed amendment to the Metropolitan Police bill should be passed it will apply to Fort Wayne, Terre Haute, Richmond, New Albany, Lafayette and Logansport, whereas there is much kicking among the Republicans.

Majority and minority reports were made yesterday to the House on the Metropolitan Police bill, the first with an amendment that the provisions be made to extend to cities of 12,000 or more inhabitants, and the second recommending that the bill be indefinitely postponed.

A bill was introduced in the Senate yesterday to fund and loan at interest the 10 per cent retained according to law by the State-house Commissioners on all appropriations for labor or building on the new State-house. The amount retained now reaches $100,000.

The bill appropriating $50,000 for the State University at Bloomington was read a second time. An amendment reducing the appropriation to $30,000 came up as the minority report and was discussed, the House adjourning without taking action on the bill or the amendment.

State Treasurer Cooper is busy getting his bondsmen, and those already secured represent an aggregate real estate value of $850,000. Under the new law requiring bondsmen to be worth twice the amount of the bond, the signers must represent $1,400,000 and Mr. Cooper hopes to have his bond ready for approval by the last of next week.

Chairman Moody, of the committee appointed to investigate the expenditures of the new insane hospital, announced yesterday that he had been unable to get any witnesses before the committee owing to the fact that those summoned were now bound. The committee will not hold another meeting till to-morrow.

The Joint Committee of the Senate and House reported adversely, yesterday, on the scheme for placing the Soldiers' Orphan Home and Asylum for Feeble-Minded Children on separate Boards of Trustees. An investigation proved that the children of the two institutions occupied different buildings, were taught and slept and ate in different apartments, and had separate play grounds.

Representative Best yesterday introduced a bill which is the nature of a local option law. It provides that no person shall be licensed to sell liquor unless he shall first present to the County Commissioners a petition, signed by at least one-half of the qualified voters of the precinct in which he proposes to sell, and that the applicant be granted. No other changes are proposed in the existing statute.

Immediately after the adjournment of the House yesterday evening the Democrats went into caucus, and determined to postpone the meeting called for last night. On motion it was decided to hold a joint caucus to-night in the Hall of Representatives, at which time the Apportionment and Metropolitan Police bills will be considered. The Republicans will also meet in caucus to-night in the Federal Court-room to consider proposed legislation.

Mr. Floyd's bill, providing that county printing shall be let under contract to the lowest bidder, came up yesterday on a second reading. Under the bill the county newspaper, without regard to politics, will be permitted to compete for the printing, the contract for which shall be made for the period of one year, the successful bidder giving bond in the sum of $500. Mr. Browning moved to strike out the enacting clause and up on this a tedious discussion followed. The bill was recommitted.

The Senate bill providing for a temporary loan of $500,000, to meet the expenses of the new insane asylum, came up in the House yesterday afternoon as the special order. The fact that a committee has been appointed to investigate the expenditures and other matters connected with the new institution raised some opposition to the consideration of the bill until after the special committee had reported. Mr. Gooding moved to postpone further consideration of the measure till Wednesday next. The motion prevailed.

Mr. Cartwright's substitute for the Mosier and Best Fee and Salary bill, was reported yesterday, and is understood to be backed by the unanimous indorsement of the committee. It reduces the compensation of County Clerks, Auditors, Treasurers and Sheriffs from the present allowance, and increases the per diem of jurors from $1.00 to $1.75. It makes a reduction of one-fourth of one per cent in the commission of County Treasurers for the collection of taxes in excess of $100,000, and reduces the annual salaries of Auditors in counties of 40,000 population $750, and in counties of 20,000 inhabitants $250.

The Metropolitan Fire Department bill will be introduced by Mr. Schley, of this county. It makes no change in the present working force of the department, but it provides that whenever vacancies occur, appointments shall be made from the opposite political faith, until the forces are equalized. All applicants will be subjected to medical examination for physical defects, but none now members will be so examined, nor are there to be any removals, save for cause. The bill also provides that the present Police Commissioners shall serve in such capacity with the fire department, and exercise the same powers now held by them.

THE KNIGHTSTOWN INVESTIGATION.
Charles Mussey, acting as night watchman part of the time at the Knightstown Home, was the first witness on the stand last night. He testified that on a certain Sunday afternoon he went out west of the building with the engineer. He saw the blinds of Dr. White's office drawn down. Nellie Layton, he said, had gone in there in the afternoon. She went in and was talking with the Doctor, who had gone in about ten minutes before that. Also saw Nellie Layton and Carrie White go into Room 42 at 8:30 p. m., three days later Christmas. Also have seen all the teachers in that room at different times. Never saw any other improper conduct on the part of Nellie Layton. Saw a boy named Ed Bowler whipped pretty hard. Knew of two boys being locked up in the dormitory.

Mary Stirling, store keeper, was recalled for a continuation of examination begun the other day. She said the governess sometimes takes the children from the dinner-table as a punishment for talking. This was the rule of the Home. Some boys claimed that they had been away from the dinner-table as a punishment for talking. This was the rule of the Home. Some boys claimed that they had been away from the dinner-table as a punishment for talking. This was the rule of the Home.

When the hall was given the children to eat she thought sufficient. Mr. Layton complained once of having too many tables to watch and Miss Clary was given charge of the tables. One boy complained that he was not given enough to eat, and she then made him eat more than he wanted next time. Witness disapproved of this and was promised it should not occur again. No regulation was ever made for bread and water for children confined in the dormitory.

The matron should look after the children's clothing a little better. I think Dr. White's conduct has been overbearing in several instances. I think he has permitted employees to inflict cruel punishment on some of the pupils. When the raw hide was used on Ed Bowman, and other instances given heretofore, I thought were cruel. Dr. White said he was superintendent and approved of the punishment. When Morgan was imprisoned to me I complained to Dr. White. He said, "Morgan was very rude to me and I reported him for it. When he was removed he was promoted, and several weeks later he was discharged."

Mr. Marsha Adams, of 51 Bradshaw street, an old lady, was called to the stand. Her grandchild is Hattie Robertson, aged seven years. Hattie went to the Home when seven years old and stayed there seven years. First saw Gear in front of my house July 2, when he came to see Hattie. They went together, saying they were going to the Grand Hotel. Gear's wife, Hattie came home an hour later, and sat down by me. Hattie went before the Grand Jury in this case. Witness stated that she was married twice, and that her right name is Green, but she goes by the name of Adams. When living at Shelbyville one of her daughters, also a widow, went to Indiana by me.

Mr. Gear presented an affidavit to the effect that he could not successfully present the case against Dr. White without an expert accountant, and he asked a week's time to go over the books with an accountant. The bill will be presented this morning to the Legislature.

THE VICE PRESIDENT.
Return of Mr. Hendricks from the New Orleans Exposition—Brief Notes of the Trip.

Hon. Thomas A. Hendricks and wife, with the party of home friends who accompanied them to New Orleans, returned yesterday. Mr. Hendricks expressed himself as being highly pleased with his reception by the Southern people, and astonished at the appearance of material prosperity throughout his line of travel and observation. Especially was this notable at points favorable to manufacturing interests. The cotton mills located in the neighborhood of Columbus, Ga., are exceedingly prosperous, and the water-power admirable and of great value. He alluded to the large and cordial reception he met with at Atlanta in terms of admiration and pleasure. The details of this persons welcome were telegraphed to the Northern papers by the Associated Press.

Mr. Hendricks was surprised at the appearance of Birmingham, Ala., a town not yet twelve years old and yet it contains 200,000 people, with large and handsome business structures that will compare favorably with the cities of Indianapolis. Manufacturing enterprises and interests built up the city. Coal, iron and limestone beds in close proximity to the city and they are easily reached by railroads, and almost inexhaustible. Mr. Hendricks visited the localities of the mines and expressed the opinion that they are surely sources of immense wealth and that the iron manufactured there will be eventually made cheaper than anywhere in the world. Some lands there are quoted as worth many thousands of dollars per acre. He notes the World's Fair at New Orleans, in structure and exhibits, as perhaps the greatest exposition of the kind ever held anywhere. The number of visitors has not been large, but is rapidly increasing. All the States have contributed, and all the Territories except Utah, Mexico, Central America, Russia, France and Italy are represented. The splendid productions of mechanical skill and agricultural growth surpass those of the Philadelphia Centennial.

While in New Orleans Mr. Hendricks rode over the railroad running to the Gulf, recently constructed by his fellow-townsmen, John R. Elder, Esq. Mr. Hendricks will remain at home until the inauguration, and he and Mrs. Hendricks will take up a temporary residence in Washington City at Willard's Hotel.

THE RINKS.
To-night the Columbus O. Polo Club will crack shins with the Meridian team at the Meridian Rink. A new scale of prices has been adopted, and will go into effect to-day. It is as follows: Morning, admission, ten cents; skates free; afternoon, admission, ten cents; skates free. Evening, admission, ten cents; use of skates, ten cents.

The "fine apron party" on Tuesday evening, at the College Avenue Rink, was a very successful affair, and each lady seemed from the quality of the material, to be competing for the prize—an elegant case—which was won by Miss Carrie Russell. The attendance last night, although not so large as on the previous evening, was very fair in size.

A WORD TO THE JOURNAL.

The Injustice Done by a Recent Publication in It.

We would say to our neighbor, the Journal, that no newspaper and no man is at any time nobler than when making the amende honorable for an injustice done another.

We add that we see no reason why a newspaper should be given to publications with a view to injuring a contemporary or its publisher than an individual should be given to locking up a neighbor's business affairs and then with coloring or distortion repeating them to other individuals.

One Donahue brought suit in Justice Feibleman's Court against Mr. Shoemaker and the Sentinel. A set of interrogatories propounded to Mr. Shoemaker, and his answers thereto, constituted chiefly the papers in the preceding. The Journal of the 10th printed under display headlines a somewhat sensational account of the bringing of the suit, and within quotation points—what purported to be the plaintiff's interrogatories. Below we present, side by side, an extract from the Journal article, including its quoted interrogatories, and a copy of the interrogatories as they may be seen in Justice Feibleman's Court.

From the Journal: INTERROGATORIES IN THE COURT.
State of Indiana, Marion County, ss. Before C. R. Feibleman, Justice of the Peace.
William H. Donahue vs. John C. Shoemaker and the Indianapolis Sentinel Company, Intergatories.

The papers were filed in Justice Feibleman's court yesterday forenoon, and are especially interesting by reason of certain questions propounded by the plaintiff, Do not you, the plaintiff, assist you in setting the contract referred to in the complaint, and to pay him $150 for so doing? Do you not procure the contract and did not the plaintiff assist in procuring the same? State fully what you know of the contract referred to in the complaint, and to pay him $150 for so doing? away and nightly posting the sign "standing room only," will return to the Grand Opera House this (Thursday) evening, February 12, for three nights and a matinee. It will be a trying moment to the nerves of some of the ladies in witnessing the realistic fire scene on board the "Bell Gremlin" the "White Slave," the tongues of flames shooting upward ten to fifteen feet, the shower of sparks that fall on the stage, and the brilliant red glare of a conflagration, all tend to make a picture so true to life that for a moment one may imagine it real, and yet there is not the slightest danger. Beneath the stage are stationed twelve men, each with a separate duty to perform. Two have charge of the battery, and at a "one" it is discharged, which forms the explosion. Directly beneath the opening used as entrance are stationed two men with iron pans. In both pans are mixtures of sawdust, steel filings and gun powder. A quick match ignites them. Sparks and flames are thus thrown up fully fifteen feet.

Then the remaining eight men begin to play their parts. Three pans of red fire are ignited, and flash boxes by which colored rosin is blown into the flame of cotton, saturated with alcohol, which produces the long flames of fire. This is kept up until the scene of the burning "Bell Gremlin." The instant the curtains touch the stage six men make a rush to lend a hand in making the conflagration from the burning boat to the Mississippi in a rain storm, while six men remain beneath the stage to guide the water falling from the openings in the stage.

The transformation is made in twenty seconds. Rubber cloths are stretched across the stage, and at a signal the torrents of real water fall upon the stage. Vivid flames of lightning and calcium lights placed in each entrance throw brilliant rays of light upon the falling water, making in the most realistic scene ever produced on any stage.

NOTES.
Lotta is said to be quite a clever artist in water-colors, and puts in all her spare time painting.

Matinee at the Zoo to-day at 2. The bill given is a strong one, and seems to please everybody.

Miss Fannie Beane and Charles Gilday in their comedy of "Colars and Cuffs" will be at English's the first three nights of next week.

Miss Marie Bates, the original of the part of "Martha" in the "White Slave," joins the company here to-day to again resume her old position.

The beautiful display of valentine in Frank Talbot's window, on the corner of Pennsylvania and Market streets, are to be given away to all the ladies and children attending Dan's Sally's matinee on Saturday.

Mr. George W. Floyd, manager of the N. C. Goodwin Comedy Company, is in the city and "not saying a word." Mr. Goodwin and company will be seen at the Grand the last three nights of next week presenting "Those Belles" and "Confessions." The engagement will be for the benefit of the Indianapolis Fire Department.

The Dime Museum increases in popularity every day, and the excellent show given this week pleases everybody. Among the many clever artists who appear in the theaterium none are more deserving, or do a better specialty, than Miss Daisy Belmont on the revolving globe. Some of the feats she accomplishes are truly marvelous. Saturday will be "children's day."

"Johnnie" Farbach, a well known young man about town (who, by the way, is quite ill at his home on North Mississippi street), yesterday received a letter from "Jimmie" Cummings, dated San Francisco, Cal., in which he stated that he had just joined "Charlie" Good's minstrels. Cummings was in business here for sometime but suddenly disappeared last summer, without any apparent cause. His friends here will not be surprised to learn that he has returned to his old profession.

A few weeks ago that popular organization the Maennerchor Singing Society produced the sparkling opera of "The Beggar Student" at their hall, and it was so favorably received that their friends prevailed upon them to again produce it at the Grand Opera House the first three nights of next week, when they will have the benefit of a larger stage and full orchestra. The entire original score by Swait and W. W. Furst's adaptation will be heard. The singing and acting will be of the highest quality, while a grand chorus of eighty voices will make a brilliant ensemble. The entire production will be under the personal supervision and direction of Professor Carl Barus. The real treat opens to-morrow morning at the theater. The prices range from fifteen to twenty-five cents.

"Out of the Depths."
A private dispatch from Dan DeWolf to a friend in this city states that the members of the lumbermen's excursion, who were new-bought at Monon, left that place, with air prospects of reaching the Michigan fisheries without further delay.
